APRIL STR. 1908 F Who are the arbiters as to what constitutes who pose as such, but we want to know who election," writes our correspondent, "passed war, and on March 12, 1858, he won the really are? Perhaps we had better first try for a definition of taste. The taste of the tongue we know; this taste of the mind must be analogous. That which is "in good taste" must be that which is pleasant to the mind of the taster; that which is " in bad taste" must be that which offends the mind of the observer; and in questionable taste" should mean that the taster cannot make up his mind whether the thing is nice or not. We have received a letter, which we do not intend to publish, in which the writer says Mr. WILLIAMS letter in our issue of Friday last was "in questionable taste." The context shows that he really means that it was in bad taste. We are struck with this impudence, for it is obvious that in publishing the letter, we were as much to blame for possible errors of taste us was its writer, and there is something piquant in the action of an authority on taste requesting an editor to publish the failure of his own glossopharyngeni apparatus, included Should Bachelors be Taxed?; Work Good taste was, in days of more polished. by too many cocktails, the best cigar is like the worst. Men are not everywhere and always capable of laying down the law as to what in conduct is beautiful, orderly, congruous, symmetrical or otherwise. Only empiric busybodies and egotistic quidnuncs presume to declare offnand and publicly whether something be refined or coarse, or in accordance with the best usage. It really cannot be done. The old definition of Taking only our own race, we find various standards of taste, and it is sheer insolence to claim very bad taste in any grade of society, but there is a wide, wide range of humbug or impudence to suggest there are any canous. Mr. Williams appealed in our columns on behalf of what he considered the most deserving case for public sympathy and help that he had ever experienced, and we understand he had the consent of those immediately concerned. It seems to us in the worst possible taste to publicly attack such an appeal, especially as no object could be served thereby. Supposing the original letter was an error of taste, the second (had we published it) would have been worse, It would have been on an equality with the tasteful reproof of the board-school miss, who exclaimed at a party; "Ob, Par! You make me 'shamed, eating with your knife." It is a lesson that a great many otherwise fairly cultured people have yet to learn, that everything which happens to displease us is not necessarily in bad taste. "De mortuis nil nisi bonum" is a generally accepted canon of good taste, but to speak ill of the living without sufficient necessity is a breach of morality

During King Edward's recent stay in Paris, all sorts and conditions of bon mote attributed to His Majesty, some less probable than others; were freely circulated. One of these, which shows the Parisians' approciation of the King's lack of "side," in a contemporary, is to the following effect. His Majesty was at a ball given in sid of a charity, and was conversing with a Parisian tailor of world-wide reputation. "The company is a very mixed one," said the latter with an air of disdain. "What of that? replied King Edward, smiling, " we cannot all be great tailors, you know."

The G. N. S. Minnesota made a splendid showing on her last trip homewards, when she carried a silk shipment for New York inside of 20 days. She had made remarkable time across the Pacific, and reached Port Townsend two days ahead of her schedule time. There three cases of smallpox broke out, and it seemed possible that this would delay the prompt delivery of the silk in New York, which means thousands of dollars to importers. It was at once decided by Mr. C. C. Lacey, Supervising Engineer of the Company, and Captain Austin t, remove the silk to the steamer Whatcom, at that moment ready to leave for Seattle, and this protest against the attitude of the American course was taken with the approval of the officials. RUSSIA IN MANOHURIA.

LONDON, April 5th. Washington advises that Mr. Root and Baron de Rosen, the Russian Minister, have bad a conference, presumably on the subject of Russia's sphere of influence in Manchuria, It is believed that the United States will have little difficulty in maintaining her attitude. China has already pointed out that the Director of the Eastern Railroad should be appointed by China whereas the position is now held by a Russian residing in Harbin The State Department refers to the stipulations of the Portsmouth treaty providing for a simultaneous Russo-Japanese evucuation of Manchuria, and Russia's recognition of the principle. The position of the United States will be maintained until Russia shows that her jurisdiction in Man-

CABINET AND SOCIALISM.

A London paper said last month :-The debate in the House of Commons on Mr. P. W. Wilson's Unempl yed Bill, it is authoritatively stated, shows that the majority of the Cabinete has adopted a new line of action in regard to the Socialists, and that henceforth Socialism, both inside and outside the party is to be opposed.

Mr. Wilson, who introduces the Unpoyed Bill, is the official liberal member for South St. Paneras, but the measure he fathers is unabash dly Socialistic. Its essential purpose is to establish by law the Marxian p inciple that Socialists call "the right to work," or, as Mr. Harold Cox describes "the right to demand wages for work that nobody wants done

The struggle over the Bill has reached the Cabinet, where, it is stated on excellent authority, diverse views have prevailed, and soveral Ministers are anxious to maintain the policy of conciliating the Socialists.

It is stated, however, that the members of the Cabinet opposed to Socialism will not compromise on the matter, and that the Government Whips will be put on as tellers against the Bill in the division.

Members of the Government believe that the bulk of the Liberal party would be glad to be rid of the Socialistic milistone that has been hanging round their necks for the last

BRITAIN'S NEW PREMIER.

The Right-Honourable Herbert Henry Asquith, who succeeds to the office vacated by Sir Henry Campbell Bannerman, has had distinguished political career. Born at Morley, Yorkshire, on 12th September, 1852, herwas educated at the City of Lordon School and Baliol College, Oxford, of which he was acholer and afterwards Fellow. He was called in June, 1876 to the Bur at Lincoln's Inn, and was appointed a Queen's Counsel in 1800. He married in 1877 Helen, daughter of Mr. F Molland, of Manchester, but she died in 1891 Three years later Emms Alice Margaret, daughter of Sir Charles Tennant, became his wife. THE PUBLIC HEALTH BILL.

With reference to the report made by two of the leading local firms of architects, at the request of the principal European landiords, upon the Bill to amend the Public Health and Buildings Ordinance, it is of interest to know. that the term ' principal European landowners' used in this connection includes the following :

Messes, Jardine, Matheson & Co., Ltd. Messrs, D. Sassoon & Co., Ltd.

Messrs. E. D. Sassoon & Co. Messrs. Siemssen & Co. Mesers. Linetead and Davis,

The Insurance Companies and the Steamboat Companies have a considerable part of their reserves vested in house property and are therefore vitally interested in any measures palculated to detrimentally affect their revenue from such investments.

INDISCREET PROSELYTISM AT MACAO.

Our Macao correspondent writes : -Occasionally one hears or reads of the mysterious disappearance of children from religious colleges or convent, and no account can be given of the circumstances by those in charge. A case has just recently occurred. The Court ordered that a young man, under full age, who had been in a religious college here should be given up to his parents, but the priests had a strong objection to handing the lad over to his "pagan" parents. And now the youngster has mysteriously disappeared. Apropos of this subject may be mentioned a matter which has been disturbing the populace at Mongha. The Sisters of the Italian Convent baptized a girl aged 13. The girl belonged to a well-to-do Chinese family in the district and was related to a bonz of the Mongha pagoda. When it teesme known that the girl had been bapt zed the whole village rose in protest and threats were made to burn down the convent. In the end the Sisters were obliged to surrender the girl to her parents. It is a pity that the seal of the religious fraternities is not tempered with greater discretion.

ANOTHER EXTRADITION CASE.

In presenting an application on behalf of the Chinese Government for the extradition of a 19402. For 19 6 the average was 181.7, and man named Kwan Ching on charges of armed robbery, Mr. Bowley, Crown Solicitor, told the story of how a market town was held up and how a pitched battle took place between a band of robbers and a number of soldiers. It was stated that on November 13th, 1907, a band of robbers entered Wong Lin Hiv, a market town in the Shunisk district. They raided a number of shops, including the Hing Loong shop, where the ten robbers (prisoner bring among number), armed with revolvers and torches, drove the fokis into a corner and ransacked the premises. A number of soldiers tried to capture the robbers who offered a stout resistance. Nine soldiers were fatally shot and most the robbers escaped.

Witnesses were called who spoke to the identity of the accused and to his part in the robbery.

The case was adjourned.

A PARSEE KNIGHT IN HONGKONG.

Referring to the paragraph in our yesterday's issue, stating that Sir Cowasji Jehanghir a wealthy Parses merchant of Bombay has given four lakes of supper for the promotion of science teaching in Bombay, we may mention that Sir and Lady Cowasji Jehanghir, accompanied by their son and daughter arrived here by the last P. and O. steamer "Devapha" from Bombay, and are at present staying at the King Edward Hotel. They are on a holiday tour. They intend proceeding to Shanghai by the next P. and O. mail, breaking the journey there; and then will sail for Japan, stopping there about a couple of weeks, re urning to India by way of Hongkong.

Sir Cowasji and Lady Jehanghir are well ... known in England.

We believe this is the first occasion a Parese Knight has set foot on the shores of Hongkong. Bombay owes its University Hall to the munificence of the father of Sir Cowasji. We make the following extract from the list of the university benefaction; -The Sir Cowasji, Esplanade, and that no subscription from any other private person be received for this object

Furthermore, on 24th September 1803, the late Sir Cowasji forwarded a donation to meet the expense of a grant of arms to the university and the engraving of a uni ersity seal.

The late Bir Cowasji made the following university endowment on 14th January 1858. He offered the sum of Rs. 5,000 for the founding of a Latin scholarship to be awarded each year to the best candidate in Latin at he Matriculation examination.

The present Knight was born in 1853. He is the nepher and adopted son of the late Sir Cowasji. He married in 1876 Dhunbai, daughter of the late Ardeser Hormusji Walia of Lowjee Castle, Bombay.

DELIVERING LETTERS.

At the Magistracy yesterday a postman summoned the residents at 6 Pedder's Hill for assault and was himself summoned for using abusive lan guage. The postman stated that he selled at the house in question on Saturday morning and seeing none of the servants about he entered the house. Witness handed to the male defendant, who was in his room, a letter which he refused to accept. Witness then went into the room and the gentleman taking the letter with his left hand struck the witness with his right, at the same time ordering him out. On the counter summons, the gentleman stated that the postman entered the house without knocking and passing through the hall entered his room. He ordered him out and as the postman did not leave he pushed him out.

His Worship-You had no right to touch. Witness-But he would not leave the room.

His Worship-He had to deliver letters and he stated that there was no one about. Witness-Yes, there was. A postman knows

HAMBURG, (FROM OUR CORRESPONDENT.)

March 13th.

After the communique of the Hamburg America Line to the press a fortnight ago, the full annual report and the balance sheet of the company which appeared last week possess little interest for the general reader; still the following figures may be worth quoting: the nett earnings of the company during the ten years from 1898 to 1907 inclusive amount to 233 million Marks out of which on an average annual dividends of 7,85 per cents has been paid and 161 million Marks placed to depreciation and reserve accounts; 302,5 millions have been spent on the purchase of new steamers during that period, or, deducting the value of ships sold as they stood to book, 256; millions. On the other hand the capital of the company represented by ordinary and preference shares shows an increase of only 114 millions having at different times been raised from 58,5 millions in 1898 to 172,5 in 1907. Last year the cost of new steamers amounted to 40 million Marks. The gross aggregate tonnege of the entire fleet news reaches 155,742 Ts. reg. or 2,9249 Ts more than at the end of 1966 and the average age of the vessels, taking their respective measurements into account, comes to seven years eleven months. The several institutions for the benefit of the employes of all ranks and descriptions have continued to be the object of special care and attention on the part of the directors, substantial sums having been from time to time allotted to the different branches, whilst no less than M. 789,934 59 have been paid to the State Insurance funds. The sea-going steamers made 1228 voyages, carrying altogether 470,290 passengers of all classer, exclusive of those conveyed out and back to the health resorts of the Northsea and 6,312,930 Tls. of cargo. The entire distance traversed by these steamers amounts to 7,755,47 nautical miles or 14,363,192 Kilometres being 359 times the length of the sequator.

DROP IN SHARES. The balance sheet not being deemed satisfactory by the stock exchange the shares of the Line dropped to 111,40 after the general meeting and those of the Norddeutsche Lloyd to about par; since then both have recovered somewhat, but are still under a cloud. A BANK REPORT.

It will be remembered that the directors of he Dentsche Benk in Barlin in their annual report last year were amongst the first to signal the approach of a turn in the tide of commercial and industrial prosperity; it is therefore all the more significant that they should in the one for 1907, just issued, draw attention t symptoms of improvement in the general situs. tion after the wide-spread economic disturbances of the last six months, although they are careful to add that so far affairs have not got beyond the first stage of convalezcence. The inti oductory passage of the report reads as follows: The past year has witnessed a severe financial crisis extending over the whole world; it had become more and more apparent during the first half of the year that the flood of prosperity was receding, in the third quarter however, after a fairly good barvest, signs of renewed activity were noticeable and as dear money had been generally expected and provision made to meet the increased demand which sets in every autumn, the latter might not have proved a disturbing factor but for the notice, should the army be mobilized? sudden outbreak in October of a financial orisis in the United States of unusual severity, which -led-to the withdrawal from circulation and the hearding up of currency in that country. Not only was gold no longer obtainable but notes too became scarce and a premium of 3 per cent. and more was established for ready money, a formidable demand for gold from Europe being the natural consequence. Rather over 100 million dollars were shipped to America via London of which more than one half was contributed by Germany and a smaller amount by France. The Bank of England under the circumstances was obliged to raise the rate of discount in rapid succession to 7 per cent, and the Reichstank in Berlin had no option but to adopt the same course rutil 73 per cent, was reached, a rate without precedent in the history of the bank. The crisis remained acute up to the end of the year; many of the week firms succumbed whilst others auffered so severely that fresh failures continue to be reported from all parts of the made the following important and significant world notably from the United States. The foreign trade of Germany however has again beaten the record imports, exclusive of gold showing an increase of 579 million marks over those of the previous year and exports one of 511 mil. lions. For the first time for many years, the export owing to the urgent demand from America, the amount of gold exported exceeded that of gold imported [to the extent of 17 million Marks according to the statistical returns of the government] a fact that should induce the mercantile community to place a certain restriction on the purchases of foreign goods for he present. It is deserving of note however that in spite of the enormous increase in the do not intend in this matter to be left behind. quantity of goods received from aboard the balance of trade has on an average during the last ten years been largely in favour of Germany and that from 1897 to 1907 this country has had to receive more gold from other countries than her House save one—that in which the economical endebtedness to them amounted to, the average of the ten years being in round numbers 169 million Marks. THE KAISER'S LETTER. It is to be hoped that the incident of the Kaiser's letter to Lord Tweedmouth may have been definitely closed by the declarations of the ministers in both houses of parliament on Monday last. Most people here, English as well as German, seem inclined to agree with Lord Rosebery, who said in his speech :- I confest I have only one apprehension in regard to this matter and that is that as a nation we may be making ourselves quite ridiculous by the fuss which has been made about this correspondence and to think that the whole affeir does - not. redound to the credit of the great city paper which first gave it publicity in language anything but temperate. The numerous letters which appeared on this occasion in the different newspapers in England again reveal the saton. ishing ignorance prevailing amongst the public and even in parliamentary circles, concerning the position and power of the Kaiser. He is no autocrat ruler like the Tsar or the Sultan; as King of Prussia he is bound by his oath to the constitution and as German Emperor he is simply primus inter pares and although Prussia is certainly the predominant partner he can take no important step without the consent of the other sovereign princes of the empire and the Free towns, and the sanction of the Reichstag. If people would bear this in mind Trust. it might save much foolish talk and groundless fears! Besides, as I have remarked on former occasions does anybody realize what war means in a country where every able bodied man is a soldier, liable to be called away from his daily vocation and from his family at a moment's

SUPREME FLEET.

IMPORTANT DECLARATION OF BRITISH Policy.

A notable statement of British naval policy was made in the House of Commons last month by the Chancellor of the Exchequer. He stated. amid cheers from the Unionists :

We must maintain the unassailable supremacy of this country at sen, and for that purpose the two-Power standard, as it is commonly called, whether it is a scientific formula or not, is a good, practical, and workable one. There is no difference of opinion on that point between successive Administrations.

During the debate Mr. Balfour had referred to the remarkable programme of naval construction which was being undertaken by Germany, and to the statements which had been made as to the rapid construction which was being aimed at in lineaue. that country. The leader of the Opposition pointed out that if these forecasts were fulfilled. the relative position of the British Fleet would be detrimentally affected. Mr. Asquith replied to these remarks at length, and in conclusion statement, amid cheers:

M. Sabatier gave last month the last of his lectures, delivered under the terms of the Jowett Trust, on the subject of "The Modernist Movement in the Roman Catholic Church. The cause of all this was the growing sense of the Church as some thing possessing unity and consciousness, which the lecturer compared to the growth in the political sphere of the sines of nationality. Mo dern.sm responded to this new phenomenon It accepted and lived in the tradition of the Church, but at the same time was careful to adapt itself to the new needs of growth and development. In the sphere of exegesis it studied the Bible comme pur savant, but unlike orthodox Protestantism it would avoid the error of opposing the Bible to the Church. This, said M. Sabatier, was to oppose the will of mother and father in presence of the child. In the sphere dogma it was hostile to the attempt to make a geometrical survey of the field and fix inviolable. limits. Modernism regarded the dogma of the Church as a development of which the growth during the period of gestation was very difficult aubject of investigation. At least the Modernists contemplated no return to the state of the severely primitive Church. Such an ideal they left to the archeologically minded. The salient characteristic of Modernism was its possession of the sense of life. It felt itself the child of the past, the parent of the future. It destroyed nothing, renounced nothing, accepted all. Its mission was that of the reconciler. First must harmonise science and faith, and then faith and "free thought." M. Sabatier referred to interesting meetings which have recently taken place in Paris along this latter line. resulting in friendly gatherings in which M.M. Séailles, Vandervelde, Buission, Pécot, and others have taken part. There might yet be born a libre pensée religieuse. At the close of the lecture the Rev. A.L. A WEEK IN THE LIFE OF THE PREMIER.

The February issue of the "London Magatine" contains an interesting article entitled "A Week in the Busy Life of the Premier." The author, who signs himself "Amicus," enjoyed the friendship of Sir Henry Campbell Bannerman for many years, and visited him at Belmont Castle during the autumu.

" For a slow worker like Sir Henry, the work of proparing and delivering specches during an autumn campaign would really be sufficient to occupy all his time. But, as it is only one out of about a hundred of his occupations, it is a standing marvel that he manages to pullthrough. 'As I observed him during an arduous week. I could not fail to be struck by the nathetic sight of this benevolent old gentleman, intended by nature to all the role of a country gnire with dignity, caught up in the whirl machinery, and hurried forward at breathless speed. All day long his attention must never relay. Even meal times scarcely afford an instant's respite, and far into the night, when his temp'es are throbbing, his weary blinking, he must still strugie with his endless labours, far beyond the limits of his physical strength. Yet he never complains, his temper is never unroffled, he is always kind and conaiderate and courteous. I think it is the re cognition of these qualities, of that quiet and even mind, which turns a prison into a hermitage, that has caused the recent-popular revulsion in his favour. "Perhaps the task which Sir Henry finds most trying of all is that of maintaining harmony among his colleagues. When he was called upon to form a Government there were probably about 10 times more claimants than offices. Old men who had toiled for the party during long years in the wilderness regarded all the best places as their due; brilliant youths who had done all the hard work naturally expected their reward : Whigs and Socialists and representatives of the Nonconformist conscience, every section and fad and interest clamoured for excessive recognition. It was only by a miracle of fact and commo sense that Six Henry was able to form his Government without making a single serious enemy, but it must be a still greater miracle to continue to keep it well in hand. "If the public only knew the incessant vigilance, the infinite pains, the extravagant flatteries, the trying humiliations which have been necessary, their pity for Sir Henry would only be surpassed by their admiration. apart from his work as a peacemaker, he has always had the labour of giving practical supervision to every department. No doub he has confidence in the colleagues he has chosen, but it is impossible for him to forget that a blunder by any subordinate will always be laid at his door.

"I should say that he was more successful as a diplomatist than as a politician. This is particularly noticeable when he is entertaining foreign guests, and a considerable share in the improved relations with foreign coun tries is due to him as well as to the King."

SHIPWRECKED CREW'S ADVENTURE.

A vivid story of the wreck of the " Eclipse, and of the sufferings of her crew reached Queens town last month. The vessel, which was of 1,469 tons register, was on a voyage from Newcastle to San Francisco, when after eighty-five days at sea, she was overtaken by a terrific hurricane. accompanied by thunder and lightning. At the height of the storm a "thunderbolt" struck her fore-topmast, which was shattered. and then prashed through the deck, making a hole in the vessel, through which the sea poured rapidly. For four days and nights the crew worked at the pumps.

and two gills of water, shaped a course for the Sandwich Islands, nine hundred miles distant. Exposure, heat, and thirst told heavily upon the men, whose sufferings reached a climax on the thirteenth day, when three of their number died in great agony. Their remains, on being thrown overboard, were promptly devoured by sharks, which had been following the boats for

made the shore. The crew were conveyed on them there," the backs of natives to places of shelter.

PORT ARTHUR UNDER THE JAPANESF.

REBUILDING THE FORTRESS ON S. CRET

The St. Petersburg, correspondent of the Pall Mall Gazette wrote on March 9:-In view of the renewed interest aroused in Port Arthur by the recent condemnation of General from the " Voice of Moscow" portion of the Dalny have changed very much since the war. Under Russian rule Port Arthur was an international town full of life, and, after the Japanese came into possession of it, it promised to be even livelier than ever. The roads were repaired, the ounve renewed, the water supply

- But suddenly comething happened. All at once Port Arthur became a city of the dead, Business men quietly abandoned their ships. builders left their uncompleted buildings, and from that time up to the present no private individual has begun any new building in Port Arthur. The great supplies of provisions and other goods were sent back to Japan or into other parts of Manchuria. But none except improved. Japanese and Chinese merchants

The relations of the Japanese authorities towards the Chinese are very severe. All Russian and Chinese are registered and are looked after. very carefully. Notices have been issued to the effect that any Chinese found within any of the prohibited areas around the forts will be dealt with very severely: Chinese seen in New Town after 8 p.m., are arrested and fined.

The whole fortress is being reconstructed on a new and unknown-plan he fortifications are buing extended beyond their old limits and the labourers and overseers are selected with the greatest care. The old redoubts are not destroyed, but all useful material in them has been moved to other sites. In the construction of the fortifications great attention has been paid to the selection of the best positions whence a plunging fire can be concentrated on the passages through the hills in front, and in order to attain this end, constant practice firing is long-range guns mounted in excellent forts. At one point alone there are 120 guns. On the seaward side rows of guns are visible-many of these guns were taken from the Russians. Trial-firing is carried on more and more frequently at night with the help of reflectors, and, to assist the gunners, a whole series of signal stations has been erected on the hills:

At the bottom of both harbours, and out along the sea-coast up to a distance of two miles from the fortress, some sort of work is being darried on; perhaps mines are being laid. All the way to Mukden strategic positions are being selected and prepared, and strategic roads are being run through the mountain. As for Dalny, it is strongly fertified on the landward side, the entire environs of the village of Lonkkn having been converted into fortress positions," and guns have been mounted there. On the seaward side Dalny is more weakly fortified, but on the whole it is very much more. strongly defended than when the Russians were in possession of it. The enormous barracks in Port Arthur and Dalny are full of troops, and great stores of grain, fodder, beans, etc., have been collected. There has lately the largest calibre. To the fortified points of Port Arthur and Dalpy special railway branch lines have been built from the main railway. Large parties of Japanese officers come frequently from Jepan to study the ground; not only at Port Arthur and Dalny, but in Mukden and Lizoyang. Lately many troops have come, and have all gone to Mukden.

AMUSING SPEECH

In the House of Commons, during the debate on womens's suffrage, Mr. Catheart Wason (L., Orkney and Shetland), a gigantic figure. rose from below the gangway, and in measured tones proposed the rejection of the measure. We are but passing shadows," he remarked. and the House could not repress a burst of laughter at the thought of the stalwart Mr. Wason as a passing shadow. He argued that men alone should bear political responsibility. Look at the responsibility of our Foreign Secretary," he said. "Are you going to put such a power as this in the hands of an unknown quantity ?". Every other sentence of Mr. Wason tickled the House, the deep gravity of his manner contrasting with his conscious or unconscious humour. " It is not our fault that Providence has created such a difference between the sexes. Their efforts failing to keep the ship effoat. It is not the work of the Liberal Party," he Captain Larsen and his fifteen men took to the exclaimed plaintively. "The time is not yet boats. A few hours later—on January 11—they | when we can turn our pruning forks—I mean saw the ship founder. Captain and crew, whose our spears-into spoons," and "I don't know sustenance consisted of two biscuits a day each | how women feel about barmaids, but I do know. how I feel, " were two of his gems. He quoted a tale, the moral of which runs that the one great desire of women is sovereignty. "That means, he said, waving his hand to the Unionist benches, getting you under their thumb and keeping you there." A minute later he was holding aloft the importance and the dominance of force in all relations of life. "Why." he cried, " it is force and force alone which allows On the night of January 26th the island of | us to lay down our heads on our pillows at Mani was sighted, and on the next day the boats | night and wake up in the morning and find

LARGEST CRUISER.

The new armoured cruiser Shannon, built and equipped at Chatham Dockyard at a cost exceeding £1,400,000, has been commissioned by Captain J. A. Fergusson for service in the Fifth Cruiser Squadron (Home Fleet at the Nore) as flagship of Rear-Admiral G. A. Callaghan, C.B., says the "Chronicle," The Shannon is the largest and most powerfully armed cruiser now flying the white ensign, and is to take the place of the armoured cruiser Leviathan, which is to be sent from Chatham to Devenport to take the place of the protected cruiser Niobe as flagship of the Home Fleet Division at that port.

The Shannon is the first of three improved cruisers of the Warrior type, and was laid down on January 2, 1905. She has been built with a displacement of 14,600 tons, and is fitted with engines of 27,000 borse-power, propelling her at a speed of twenty-three knots per hour. She is armed with four 9.2in and ten 7.5in. breech-loading and sixteen small quick-firing

The Fifth Cruiser Squadron is now composed entirely of new armoured cruisers.

THE PSYCHOLOGY OF WOMEN.

The address on "The Psychology of Women," claimants to "Women's rights." There were Petersburg, was empowered by Tokyo to reply, such profound differences between man and woman that the one must always be a pazzie to the other, and the psychology of women must uperior to them, but the suggestion of in feriority is now but a legend, handed down from times when brute strength or force was the only recognised sign of superiority. Their physical disadvantage had developed some characteristics from the necessity of self-protection and the defence of their offspring. They were more obstinate and jealous than men, and they were more capable of artifices and of expressing feeling, emotion, or sympathy, but if these were natural they were necessary, and they had evolved from exigency and environment. What was the psychological future of women? He saw no limit to their occupations, and if, by diat of obstinacy, they did get into Parliament, they would first participate and then monopolise. They would by sheer weight of numbers bring about such social conditions that a revolution would ensus—the men would turn and rend them.

EARL ROBERTS ON THE DANGERS OF INVASION.

Earl Roberts addressed the Windsor Forest Athletic Club at Ascot. He remarked that it was said that compulsory training would mean hardships, but that was not so. Everybody would be included in the scheme, high and low, rich and poor. If the Government would only take up the matter we should then have no loafers. All men would be properly set up and be able to do all they were will-d upon to do if necessary. "I am not an alarmist." Lord Roberts proceeded, "but I have no hesitation-in saying that it seems to mean absolute certainty some day that if we remain as we are now this country will be inveded. There is nothing to prevent it. The Navy may be as strong as you like to make it, but it has to do things that no other Navy has to do. It has to ensure its own country getting its food supplies, and to be all over the world. Our Navy from time immemorial has had to go in search of the enemy's fleet and to protect our commerce. Our population has enormously increased, and if we failed, we should starve, and we should make any peace which the enemy put upon us. We should have to pay an enormous indemnity, from which we should never recover, and all because we cannot believe that an invasion sould take place. That is a marvellous conclusion for the people to come to, but it is because they have been brought up to believe that invasion could not happen. I wonder at the extraordinary apathy and ignorance of the British public. If we had universal military training nobody would attempt to come here and our Fleets would be free to roam the sess. We are told we can sleep comfortably in our beds and that an invasion is impossible. The National Service League has on its roll of membership between 30 and 40 senior naval officers, everyone of whom joiced to show that he firmly believed that something besides the Navy was required, and that to the Navy to our shores would be to make the Navy do what it ought not to do. I cannot believe that we shall allow this country to go sheolutely undefended."

THE TRANS-SIBERIAN RAILWAY.

Paris, Febr. 27th. The Russian representative at Tokyo having directed M. Isvolski's attention to the speeches of Japanese politiciane, and the articles in Japanese newspapers protesting against the doubling of the Trans-Siberian railway track, the Russian Government recently took steps to ascertain the real feelings of Japan in regard to

It was not desirable that the negotiations should have an official character, and inquiries word accordingly made verbally through an of Hygiene, was of special interest at the indirect and private channel, in Paris. To these present time, in view of the claim of equality inquiries Mr. Kurino, the Japanese Ambassador, put forward, with so much persistence, by who formerly represented his country at St. in the same informal manner.

The substance of Mr. Kurino's statement was as follows: - " Japan will never permit herself always remain a paradox to men. The mental to discuss with Russia the right of the latter to difference was largely influenced by education undertake any works that may please her on her and environment, and it was not impossible to own territory.
